Hearing On Missile Money Set

Cite Soviet Must Make Concessions

Summit Conference Depends On Russian Arms Cut Position

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported preparing today to insist that Russia prove its good faith by new disarmament concessions before this country will consider a second East-West summit conference.

This basic strategy unfolded as top officials drafted President Eisenhower's reply to Russian Premier Bulganin's newest bid for a meeting of Communist and free world leaders.

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were understood to be increasingly reconciled to the inevitability of a new round of talks with the Soviets, but far from enthusiastic about the prospects.

Attitude Seen Changed

Their attitude, in the face of Allied pressure for new discussions, appeared to be developing into this pattern:

1. New talks should be confined strictly to the disarmament deadlock and should not include discussion of political problems.

2. These discussions should be held either on a foreign ministers' level or lower, such as within the United Nations Disarmament Commission, to test Russia's professed willingness to ease tensions.

3. The door to a multilateral summit conference, bringing together Eisenhower and Bulganin, will remain open as a follow-up to any promising disarmament negotiations.

If Russia rejects new disarmament talks or refuses to offer concessions, Eisenhower and Dulles will vigorously oppose any new summit conference. Their view, officials said, is that it would harm the West by sending hopes skyrocketing, only to see them tumble in disillusionment.

Harold Stassen, Eisenhower's disarmament chief, meanwhile was reported urging the administration to "liberalize" its own disarmament attitude in advance of new talks with the Soviets.

Stassen was understood to have strongly advanced his recommendations for changes despite bitter opposition from Dulles, Atomic Energy Commissioner Lewis L. Strauss and the Defense Department.

Session Set For Monday

The conflicting Dulles-Stassen views will be laid before President Eisenhower at a decisive meeting of the National Security Council set for next Monday in the White House.

Stassen, who led American negotiators at this year's arms talks with Russia in London, is known to be ready to quit if Eisenhower sides with what Stassen regards as the "negative" Dulles view.

In this case, Stassen friends believe he will cut his five-year ties with the Eisenhower team and make a public issue of disarmament, hoping to build up a clamor of public support for his ideas. This also would give Stassen campaign ammunition for his expected bid for the Republican nomination for governor in Pennsylvania, a move he is considering if he quits.

Veteran Fireman, 65, Heart Attack Victim

CLARKSBURG (AP)—Fireman Frank Daugeaux, 65, who would have been eligible for retirement next May, died of a heart attack last night while fighting a blaze which gutted the Muntzing Motor Co.

Unofficial estimates from Melvin Muntzing, operator of the business, and Dr. R.B. Taylor, who owned the building, indicated that the total loss was about $100,000.

Former Beauty Queen Plans To Divorce Mate In Nevada

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Maryland's one-time Miss USA, who threw the Miss Universe contest into a tizzy last summer, plans to divorce her Air Force husband.

And Air Force Sgt. Gene N. Ennis says he does not plan to contest the action.

Mrs. Leona Gage Ennis, 18, is the shapely (36-23-36) Miss Maryland that made chaos of the contest in July when officials learned she was no Miss but a Mrs.—with two children.

In Los Angeles yesterday, Mrs. Ennis announced she planned to go to Las Vegas, Nev., next month to divorce the sergeant. "I've known for a long time that the marriage wasn't working out but I wanted to give it every chance."

Sgt. Ennis, 28, here in Crisfield to visit his mother-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Long, said his wife had their children, Gene Jr., 3, and David, 2, and would keep them. "She told me she doesn't love me," the sergeant said.

It is Mrs. Ennis' second marriage. They were married Feb. 3, 1954, in Wichita Falls, Tex.

Eisenhower, Budget Boss Session Set

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower makes the all-but-final decisions today on the 1958-59 federal budget—expected to be the largest peacetime spending program in the nation's history.

He scheduled a meeting on his Gettysburg estate with Budget Director Percival Brundage.

Right afterward he planned to meet with Dr. James R. Killian Jr., his special scientific adviser. Otherwise the outlook was for a quiet, family-type New Year's Eve on the Eisenhower farm. Little if any festive greeting of 1958 was in prospect.

Today is the sixth birthday of Susan Eisenhower, one of the four grandchildren of the President and First Lady, and "they will celebrate it," said White House press secretary James C. Hagerty with a grin.

Eisenhower and the grandchildren strolled around the farm yesterday for a while in weather that was clear but near freezing.

The President also received from Washington the latest, typewritten draft of the State of the Union message he will give Congress Jan. 9.

His budget message goes to the lawmakers shortly afterward. Estimates in government circles are that the budget will be in the neighborhood of 74 billion dollars.

Tito Completes Physical Check, Health Is 'Good'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug announced today that President Tito has successfully completed medical treatment and his doctors consider his health completely satisfactory.

The report by Tanjug did not identify Tito's ailment. The government announced last November that he could not attend the Soviet Union's 40th anniversary celebration because he was suffering from acute lumbago.

Tanjug said Tito had been treated at his Brioni Island retreat and now would spend some time in Slovenia, the southwestern Yugoslav republic.

Sputnik Due To 'Burn Up'

MOSCOW (INS)—The Soviet Union says Sputnik I is descending "intensively" and is expected to "burn up" in the first days of January.

A Sputnik communique issued by the official Soviet news agency Tass last night said the pioneering earth satellite probably will enter the denser layers of atmosphere at that time and "cease to exist."

Pact Removes N. Y. Transit Tieup Threat

NEW YORK (AP)—The threat of a New Year's Eve transit strike that could have paralyzed New York evaporated today with a City Hall contract settlement.

Deliverance from the threat of a walkout on the city's subways and bus lines came at 2:40 a.m. Michael J. Quill's Transport Workers Union and the City Transit Authority reached tentative agreement on a two-year contract providing a 32½-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Then, with the pattern set, City Labor Commissioner Harold A. Felix spent only two hours in drawing a stalemate between the TWU and nine privately owned bus lines, including one in suburban Westchester County.

This agreement calls for wage increases ranging from 18 to 24 cents an hour over two years.

Both agreements are subject to union membership ratification.

Cyprus Governor Flies To London

LONDON (AP)—Sir Hugh Foot, governor of Cyprus, flew to London today for talks with the British government on the future of his east Mediterranean island.

He told airport newsmen he was in favor of taking risks to reach a settlement of the dispute that flared into open rebellion against British rule on Cyprus.

Foot's return to London coincided with a warning distributed in Nicosia by the leader of EOKA—the underground movement of Greek-speaking islands campaigning for union with Greece.

Police Arrest D.C. Fugitive During Check

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Russell Wayne Carpenter, 21, wanted in a double slaying in a Washington, D.C., bar, was arrested last night by a patrolman making a routine check of transients.

The FBI said he would be jailed in Miami.

Arrestment was slated on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder, said Special Agent John H. Williams.

Patrolman Larry Wald questioned the hitchhiking Carpenter, who showed him a wallet containing pictures that matched FBI circulars and a driver's license bearing the name of the wanted man.

Police Sgt. E. E. Graham said Carpenter related that he separated in Miami Beach from Henry Clay Overton, 44, after arriving there Sunday.

Carpenter said a Miami police car fell in behind them and they became frightened.

They left the car and split up. Later Overton went back for the car and headed North. He was killed in a head-on auto collision Sunday night at Wrens, Ga., that fatally injured Charles N. Wray, 42, a construction worker from High Point, N.C.

Graham said Carpenter told of throwing away a .45-caliber pistol at Miami Beach. He was unarmed when arrested.

Overton and Wray, who was driving to his job at the missile center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., were killed in a collision during Overton's 100-mile-an-hour flight in a stolen car from the Georgia state patrol.

Asia-Africa Bloc Spurns U.S. Attack

Conference Raps 'Imperialists' In Middle, Far East

By ANTOINE YARED

CAIRO (AP)—The leftist African-Asian conference lined up today behind a demand that Western "imperialists" get out of the Middle and Far East. It made no reference, however, to vast areas dominated by the Communists.

The Political Committee approved the imperialist resolution last night after blocking attempts to accuse the United States of "inhuman atrocities" in South Korea.

The committee also rejected an attempt to mention the United States in a resolution attacking racial discrimination.

Indian Urges Caution

Anup Singh of India reminded delegates that the conference already had been labeled anti-Western and Communist-inspired. He cautioned against singling out the Americans.

The imperialism resolution calls for "freedom of self-determination, sovereignty and complete independence for the entire African-Asian area. It cites these specific cases:

1. Endorses Japanese demands for return of U. S.-occupied Okinawa.

2. Supports the demand of Indonesia for the transfer of West New Guinea from the Dutch.

3. Calls for the cession of Portuguese Goa to India.

4. Urges that unification of Korea be "peacefully effected by the Korean people themselves without any foreign coercion."

5. Supports the struggle of the British-ruled Cyprus islanders for self-determination.

The resolution lashed out at the Eisenhower Doctrine and Baghdad Pact as interfering with independence of Arab nations. It also condemned military alliances which "create overriding spheres of influence and endanger peace and suppress peoples' aspirations."

Jap Appeal Approved

The committee on nuclear weapons approved a Japanese-sponsored appeal to the United States, Russia and Britain for an immediate, unconditional end to nuclear weapon tests. The appeal, which parrots the Communist line, said the Soviet Union has signified its readiness to end nuclear weapon tests starting Jan. 1, 1958. It called on Britain and the United States to do likewise.

The committee also approved a resolution opposing introduction of nuclear rocket weapons onto foreign lands. It also opposed the expansion of foreign military bases.

The resolutions will be submitted to plenary sessions of the conference for final approval.

Traffic Deaths Under '56 Toll, Council Reports

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic accidents killed nearly 35,000 persons in the first 11 months of this year, about 2 per cent lower than the 1956 toll for the comparable period.

The National Safety Council, which reported 34,880 deaths up to Oct. 1, compared to 35,770 for the same period in 1956, termed the traffic accident picture as definitely encouraging.

"The low mileage death rate reflects improved behavior by the man behind the wheel and increased effort by enforcement agencies and public officials," the Council said.

The mileage death rate—deaths per 100 million vehicle miles—up to Dec. 1 was the lowest on record for a comparable period, 5.7 against 6.1 for the first 11 months last year.

Body Of Baltimore Woman Found In River

ESSEX, Md. (AP)—Police have identified the body of a woman recovered yesterday from Middle River as Mrs. Rose Schlauch, 43, of Baltimore.

Essex police said the body was taken from the river shortly after it was spotted by residents along the shore. Police said there were no visible signs of violence.

Red Skelton Better After Heart Failure

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Comic Red Skelton, upset over his son's illness and an upcoming TV appearance with Bing Crosby, almost suffocated last night from a severe asthmatic attack.

The attack brought on heart failure which left Skelton literally gasping for life.

His wife Georgia summoned a fire department rescue squad and his personal physician in time to revive him.

He was later taken by ambulance from his Bel Air home to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica.

His doctor said he was sleeping and "progressing satisfactorily." He said his condition was still serious but not critical as it was when he arrived at the hospital.

The physician said the asthmatic phase of the attack was complicated by accumulation of fluid in the lungs and the combination, depriving the heart of oxygen, brought on the heart failure. He added, however, that "it was not a heart attack and no indication that the heart was bad to start with."

"If there are 10 steps to death, you can say that Red took nine of them," the doctor said.

Mrs. Skelton said her husband has suffered from a chronic asthma condition for 20 years.

"But he never had an attack like this one," she said. "When it came on he took his asthma pills the same as always, but this time they had no effect."

"The attack kept getting worse and worse so that he began to gasp for air. His face turned red and I thought he was going to go. His pulse got very low."

She said that Red was working at the time on material for a film to be shot today with Crosby. His own television show, on the air tonight, already had been filmed and he was to do a skit with Crosby on the Bel Air golf course for showing Jan. 12.

Mahon Says Fund Boost 'Imperative'

House Group Set To Start Session On Request Jan. 8

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—A House appropriations subcommittee will start hearings Jan. 8 on a "Defense Department request" for emergency funds for missiles and other special defense purposes.

Chairman Mahon (D-Tex.), indicating he approves the move, said in an interview he expects the department to ask for $1,200,000,000 to supplement funds already provided for the present fiscal year.

Secretary of Defense McNamara had announced earlier he planned to ask a billion dollars in supplemental funds.

"Must Be Expedited"

"From what I know of the details, it makes sense to me," Mahon said. "The missile program must be expedited. I think they are ready to go into procurement of the missiles, to speed up monthly procurement."

Asked what he thought of a defense budget of about 40 billion dollars for next year, Mahon said, "It sounds like a conservative program."

A somewhat similar reaction came earlier from Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.), chairman of the full Senate Appropriations Committee, but Sen. Chavez (D-N.D.), who heads the Defense Appropriations subcommittee, has predicted "some rough going" in Congress for a program of that size.

No official figure has been given, but there have been indications that the current year's defense spending, originally estimated at 38 billion and since increased to 38½ billion, will be topped by one to two billion in next year's budget.

Mahon said he opposes appropriation of funds for a second atomic-powered aircraft carrier at this time and believes that "anti-submarine warfare ought to be the top priority of the Navy." He said he was encouraged by the promising prospects of the Navy's submarine-based Polaris missile, now under development.

"Ready In Year Or Two"
Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander in chief of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet and also of NATO's Atlantic Command, told a Pentagon news conference the Polaris should be operational "in the next year or two."

Wright said the missiles themselves and the submarines designed to fire them should be ready for use about the same time.

Meanwhile, he said, more money, research, ships and aircraft are needed to improve defenses against missile submarines of possible enemies.

Pope Pius Hails Aviation, Points To Its Benefits

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today hailed aviation as a modern development that brings people closer together. He congratulated Australia's Qantas Airline on the inauguration of a world-circling service.

The 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church, who himself flew to the United States in 1956 before he became Pope, held a special audience for about 50 persons on a preliminary Qantas global flight. The regular service starts Jan. 14.

Wet Holiday Due For East

By The Associated Press
It looked like a very wet New Year's Eve, weatherwise, in most of the Eastern half of the nation today. Cold weather clung to the north-central region.

Snow, sleet and rain hit much of the mid-continent and wet weather was forecast for most areas eastward to the Atlantic Coast.

Democrats Hit Eisenhower Education Bill As Skimpy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Influential congressional Democrats said today the Eisenhower administration program for bolstering scientific education is good but doesn't go far enough.

President Eisenhower endorsed at Gettysburg, Pa., yesterday a proposal for a billion-dollar federal outlay in the next four years to promote education, particularly in science and mathematics. The states would have to match about 600 millions of this amount.

The program was laid out by Secretary of Welfare Folsom as the administration's answer to accumulating evidence the United States is dropping behind Russia in scientific education fields.

The program would provide for 10,000 scholarships yearly, worth an average $700-800 a year, to help worthy high school students attend college.

It also would make available, on a matching basis, federal funds to help states employ more mathematics and science teachers, speed laboratory equipment purchases, boost teachers' pay, or take other steps to improve teaching systems.

Limited grants to colleges, fellowships for graduate students and other steps are included.

Wilson Claims Ike Cut Defense

Contents Congress Slashed Arms Budget Last Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said President Eisenhower trimmed military spending requests a year ago in anticipation of a budget-cutting mood in Congress, according to today's New York Herald Tribune.

In a Washington dispatch, Robert J. Donovan quoted Wilson as saying he personally was dissatisfied with the size of the defense budget—38½ billion dollars—the President proposed to Congress last January for the current fiscal year. Congress cut it to 36 billion, Wilson said.

Reached at his home by The Associated Press, Wilson said the Herald-Tribune quoted him correctly. He declined further information.

The copyrighted story continued: Wilson said the decision to separate Project Vanguard (the earth satellite program) from the military missile program was made by the President personally on recommendations of Budget Director Percival Brundage and after discussion in the National Security Council.

Far from fearing that interservice rivalry would retard missile development, Wilson purposely "put the Army in business with the Air Force" in developing a 1,500-mile missile because of the stimulating effect of competition. However, Wilson added, "some of the people in the services get a little childish" in the things they say about one another.

The former secretary observed that some critics are trying to make him the scapegoat for the shortcomings of the missile program. "I don't think it will be the Air Force" in developing a

Missile, Satellite Boss Doesn't Act Like 'Czar'

WASHINGTON—Some of the people who work most closely with William M. Holaday say it is ludicrous to call him a missile and satellite "czar."

Even if he had czar-like authority—instead of being simply an assistant to the secretary of defense—he doesn't have the temperament to play the part, they insist.

"He is an old shoe guy," one said.

"He is a team player all the time," said another.

One of his closest coworkers remarked that he had occasionally seen Holaday "build up quite a head of steam."

"But you would have to know him extremely well to realize he was mad clear through," this Holaday associate went on. "The words that came out were always those of a gentleman."

Holaday, a retired research director for the Socony-Mobil Oil Co., has been the top adviser to the secretary of defense for guided missiles since May. He was one of the men on the hot spot when the Russians made their spurt ahead of the United States in the satellite field.

His recent appearance before the Senate Preparedness subcommittee did not quiet congressional criticism of him. In fact, there

Mine Blast Hearing Set In West Va.

AMONATE, Va. (AP)—The West Virginia Department of Mines opens a hearing today into the blast which killed 11 miners in a Pocahontas Fuel Co. mine here Friday.

Expected to testify when the hearing opened (at 2 p. m.) were some of the 14 men who escaped injury in the blast by sealing themselves off in an unexposed section while awaiting rescue.

A company spokesman said some of the men who worked in the explosion area on the shift preceding the 6:30 p. m. blast would also testify.

Lingering gas in the explosion-ravaged sections of the Amonate mine, meanwhile, hampered investigators yesterday in their probe of the explosion cause.

William A. Fullerton, special assistant to the president of Pocahontas Fuel, said last night workers are trying to restore proper ventilation and rid the two sections of the remaining gas. He said the investigators were unable to get all the way in to the explosion area.

The damaged area is about two miles from the bottom of the 550-foot shaft at Amonate.

Child, 3, Found In West Va. Area Must Thaw Out

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP)—A doctor says it will take four or five days to "thaw out" little Shirley Ann Ramsburg, the girl who spent two days and two nights in the Blue Ridge Mountains near her home.

The 3-year-old, blonde-haired child wandered away from her home in West Virginia's Eastern Panhandle last Friday afternoon. She was found, suffering from shock and exposure, late Sunday.

Dr. Donald K. McIntyre said Shirley Ann's condition was good and that he expected no complications. She has refused to eat or talk, but she did take a little water yesterday.

A volunteer searcher found her lying beside a tree after a ground-air search by more than 100 persons.

Joseph F. Garlitz, 39, local union leader, died several days after being injured on October 30 when his car rammed into a fixed object on Route 219 2.2 miles south of Keyser Ridge.

The last fatal accident of the year occurred last month on the eighth when Eugene F. Hamburg, 25, of RD 1, Flintstone, was killed when the vehicle he was operating struck a fixed object on the Country Club Road, one mile east of Cumberland.

The causes of the fatal accidents have been listed as speed too great for the condition of the highway, exceeding 70 miles per hour, persons following too closely, driving while under the influence, failing to keep to the right of the center line and mechanical failures.

Whatever the cause or causes may be, one thing is for sure, it is everyone's battle to fight the hazard of highway accidents.

After all the year 1958 may be a good one for us all, so let's drive carefully and live it through.

Even Maryland's sometimes staid legislators got into the act.

The Legislative Council's finance committee was discussing other fuels before approving a recommendation that Maryland coal be used to heat state offices. When one committee member asked what was used to heat the Statehouse, Chairman Boone (D-Baltimore) snapped, "hot air."

And Sen. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) got a double take during the Legislature with this statement: "I may be wrong but if I'm right, you can correct me."

It was left to a 62-year-old barrelmaker in Baltimore to prove the old saw about the squeaky wheel getting the oil.

He said old staves, hoops and other junk had been tossed into the company yard since 1881. When asked why he hadn't cleared up the 75 years' accumulation, he said no one had complained.

The most consistent letter writer in 1957 is John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, who expressed himself almost weekly on various city affairs but mostly championed the rights of police and firemen and urged traffic improvements.

B&O Expects Lower Income

BALTIMORE (AP)—President Howard E. Simpson of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad says he expects a 1957 business slump to become much worse in the first six months of the new year.

In a year-end statement, Simpson said the railroad expects that its carloadings during 1958 will "average about 8 per cent less than in 1957." The B&O carloadings of 2.9 million for this year were 6 per cent less than 1956.

Simpson said on the basis of the present outlook, the decrease in carloadings for 1958 "will be at a higher rate during the first six months of the year."

The railroad cited a business slowdown for the furloughing of more than 10 per cent of its employees in the past two months. About 2,500 employees were laid off on Nov. 1 and another 2,800 will go on furlough tomorrow. The total payroll before the layoffs was $50,000.

Grace Baptist Church will have watch night services at 9 p.m. today with Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, pastor, in charge.

Congregational hymn singing will be held at the beginning of the services and special recognition will be made of all new members received into the church fellowship this year.

Words of welcome and greetings will be made by Rev. Keefe; J. E. Eifland for the deacons; George E. Tucker, trustees; Jack E. Murrell, Sunday School superintendent; Miss Mary Robb, director of music and training union leader; Mrs. Clyde S. Runion, WMS president, and J. K. Trenton, head of finance committee.

At 10 p.m. all persons attending the services will retire to the fellowship hall for a social gathering for the whole church family. The social is sponsored by the church training union and refreshments will be served.

At 11:15 p.m. they will return to the sanctuary for the Watch Night service. Rev. Keefe's topic will be "What Of Tomorrow." He will be assisted by Melvin Grindle and Harry Hart.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

The Year Ahead

SOME YEARS AGO, a novel entitled "Little Man, What Now?" enjoyed a wave of popularity. The title seems rather appropriate to our situation as we all set out upon another 12-month voyage toward eternity. Most of us are in far better circumstances than the "little man" of the novel. But we cannot, any more than other men down through recorded time, look even a little ways into the future. We can only guess, and even the most "educated" guesses have a large possibility of error. Of one thing we can be certain, however. The qualities of character that have stood the test of centuries past will stand us in good stead during the year 1958 and all the years ahead. We must have courage, and a capacity to endure. We must be willing to make sacrifices, if need be, to preserve and strengthen the basic freedoms won by those who have gone before us. We must test our beliefs, and keep them shining. We must look to Deity for help and guidance. The year 1958 will not be without troubles; that much can be predicted with confidence. Nor will it be without blessings and triumphs; of this we may be sure. It is for us to meet the troubles without flinching. It is for us to be worthy of the blessings and triumphs.

THE NEW YEAR'S resolution has been the butt of innumerable jokes, most of them centering about the idea that resolutions are made only to be broken. Perhaps as a result of this, the custom of resolving to improve one's behavior in this way or that during the coming year has declined somewhat. Still, it is a good custom. Americans do not seem to take themselves quite as seriously as they used to, and on the whole that may be a good thing. Yet this is a time for seriousness and high resolve. It is a time when, recognizing that 1957 was a year of setbacks, we must determine to focus our thoughts and energies on the main task of working to strengthen and defend the way of freedom. To be resolute, that is the thing. Not only to make high resolutions, but to have resolution—determination, firmness, constancy of purpose. It is all right to make jokes about broken resolutions to quit smoking or eating bonbons. But when it comes to freedom and human dignity, and the tests to which they will be subjected in the year ahead, jokes are out of place. We must be high-minded and resolute.

IT MUST BE remembered, however, that resolutions, however admirable they may be of themselves, will amount to nothing if merely written down on paper and not put into practice. On this, the eve of the New Year, it seems auspicious to recall that today and not tomorrow is the time to put our good resolutions into operation. The old year should be ended in the right manner, the new year should be begun in the same way. Unfortunately, there are many who believe that this is a time for debauchery. That drunken revelry is the way to bid farewell to the year just closing and to welcome what now of those good resolutions the one which is ahead. What folly, you made a year ago? If you really intend to be high-minded and resolute during 1958, give an example of it now. Refrain from excess and see the new year in through eyes that are clear and with all your senses functioning properly. A wise man once said that nobody ever saw a bright future through the bottom of a whiskey glass. Truer words were never spoken. And then, there is that matter of driving cars when in no proper condition to assume this grave responsibility. What will the accident toll be tomorrow? How much of the blame may rest on your shoulders? Think, think and again think. We wish you a happy and prosperous New Year. Whether or not this wish comes true for you, depends largely upon yourself.

IT IS AN amazing age we live in. Some of the people who are laughing at the idea of man traveling to the moon were around to laugh at the Wright brothers and predict they'd never get that contraption off the ground.

THE MOST disappointed boy in the world is the one who gets a new watch for Christmas and fails to meet anyone who wants to know what time it is.

Beware Folks! Stormy Night Ahead

NEW YORK—Along about dusk today, the frantic search for joy begins... the annual struggle toward midnight, and obligatory oblivion to sobriety.

Be happy man, even though it hurts.

That's what New Year's Eve is for. To be gay, gay, gay on.

Tonight turns out to be the wildest, mildest, happiest, saddest, friendliest, loneliest night of the year—depending on the emotional condition of the man in the celebrant's seat.

STATISTICS aside, along with inhibitions, it is the longest night in the year for the philosophic, melancholy people who take to whisky.

And it is the shortest night for the philosophic, melancholy people who take to sleeping pills.

At parties, somebody is always leaning against a windowsill crying.

Another body, with a champagne glass attached, is slobberingly sympathetic.

On the other hand, a lot of people don't go to parties at all. There's been a big trend in recent years toward refusing to go out on New Year's Eve, because it's dangerous on the road and equally dangerous in the neighbors' recreation room, so why not stay home and enjoy a quiet evening?

LOOK AT YOUR hands. Think over the past. Listen to the clock tick. It's not like the good old days when we could take it, eh, mother?

Some fun. A growing group of the smart cynics tested New Year's Eve, having tried it in saloons and salons of all forms without working up the expected degree of glee. About yesterday, they all left home for other climes—remote mountain inns, resort spas, Europe—their object, to get away from "it all" and avoid the sights and sounds of mauling.

This is the expensive way to get through a tough night.

SOME unsophisticated teenagers, who haven't pressed through enough New Year's Eves to learn to fear them, are resentful because they can't stay up late enough.

Small children, roused and disgruntled by the loud clatter of midnight, cry at missing out on what they presume to be fun. The obligation to be happy riles the obstreperous nature of the human. Subconsciously, he rebels at the order and becomes melancholy instead.

SOMEbody always remarks, "Funny, how you never can get drunk when you try to."

At midnight they sing "Auld Lang Syne," about as moody and brooding a ballad as any ever composed, and they laugh on top and curdle underneath, while kissing strange and not particularly amenable lips.

New Year's Eve is a time for reflection and contemplation, the same old off-with-the-old, on-with-the-new story.

That's why it doesn't matter whether you go to a party, to church, to the Stork Club or grandma's—you've got to like yourself and the life you live, in order to be happy that night.

And there are not enough people who do.

Veep Maturing? His Hair Is Getting Thin

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — An old friend, who hadn't seen the Vice President for a year, approached him at a luncheon the other day and said, "Dick, now I know where all this talk comes from about how you have matured recently."

Knowing his old pal was a joker, the V.P. said cautiously, "Okay, I'll bite. What's the reason?"

"You're getting bald," the friend explained. V.P. Nixon promptly went to a mirror and admitted that sure enough, his once thick, black curly hair was getting very thin in front.

HORTENSIA Miranda, vivacious wife of the Spanish military attaché, was complaining at a cocktail party that she couldn't get any of the British diplomats into a conversation.

"They're just too reserved," she told a friend. "In fact, some of them act like they don't know how to talk."

Embarrassed, the friend whispered that Sir Edgar Whitehead, British embassy official, was standing right beside them.

Senora Miranda quickly apologized to Sir Edgar but added:

"I wish you had said something instead of just standing there eavesdropping."

"My dear lady," Sir Edgar answered, "I was not eavesdropping. You've been standing in front of the hors d'oeuvres for the last ten minutes. I've just been waiting for you to move so I could get something to eat."

ALEJANDRO Freres, the new financial attaché to the Argentine embassy is having a terrible time adjusting to this town's time schedule. He explains:

"Back home we never went out for cocktails until seven or eight and never ate dinner until nine or ten. Here you are asked for cocktails at five-thirty and eat at seven. That's why we find ourselves arriving at parties just as they're breaking up."

His pretty wife explains that the one time they left real early to try to get there on time they got lost in the town's traffic circles and never made it at all.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower may have to make another quick trip to Paris to patch up American relations with the French if a group of sneaky California grape growers don't stop picking on the French wine makers.

Other night these Californians repeated their favorite stunt of serving unlabeled French and California wines to a group of expert tasters, asking them to tell which were the domestic and which the imported wines.

As always happens in these sessions, when the scores were added up, the red-faced experts were confronted with the irrefutable evidence that they could not tell French from the California wines. What dismayed them more was the revelation that the average price of the California wine they had tasted was $2.26 per bottle, compared to $4.71 for the French.

FIRST THING friends asked Assistant White House Press Secretary Ann Wheaton when she returned from the NATO conference was how many new hats she bought in Paris.

"Didn't buy a single one," Ann replied. "I'm saving my money for a steel helmet to wear the next time I have to hold an

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—It was a day in which you could not say it was raining. It was slashing. Long, lancing spears of water flung by a hateful wind. It soaked awnings and people and cars and dogs, everything that is in and of New York was drenched by the stinging blades of pelting water.

We walked along Park Avenue, bent to it, and came at last to 56th Street, turned east into it and part way down the block hastened into an apartment house lobby.

She lived on the sixth floor, facing the street, a lovely, sunny yellow apartment with less of framed theatre mementoes than usually are found in a great actress' home.

There was one long oil of her; done by a Finn, a few photographs, some programs of notable events in her career. But not a storm of this kind of stuff.

SHE SAT ON the long, mustard-colored velvet couch and smiled as we came in.

"Don't worry about the velvet," she said. "I had it upholstered in the velvet those clever people from Munich make into raincoats. You could run this through the Hoover Dam and it wouldn't harm it. There's a small York-shire around here somewhere, do feel about before you sit down. He crawls under pillows and things. I'm afraid he'll be flattened some afternoon by a careless guest."

WE BOTH fished around among the pillows and the York-shire wasn't there, so we sat.

"And what is going on?" she said. "I don't even read about it any more. That bright Kermit Bloominggarden has two fat hits, I know, and dear Jo Van Fleet is working, and so is Shirley Booth. But what else?"

"Not much," we said, together. What was there to say?

"I don't know the theatre any more," she said. "Nor am I that old. But nothing comes my way—or seems to. I'm in some uranium mines and have some motor stocks and some money I put away. I don't have to work. But I think about it."

"So many aren't working much now," I said. "TV has moved a lot of shows to California. What's left is nothing spectacular."

"THERE'S WHERE they have us," she said. "I did that thing last year, you know. I don't remember it exactly. Except the money. They gave me $9,400 for one hour. A thing came up the other day and this young man said we'd love to have you and you are so right for the part, but we can only pay $750."

"I said I wouldn't go to the corner to post a letter for $750. And he said, well there are so few New York shows now, you take it or leave it at our price. Such nonsense, such arrogant nonsense. It's the old 'only game in town' trick. But I didn't need $750 just then, so that's how it is. Now I hear that a kid just out of drama school is going to do it at $150 and 25 cents worth of hair-graying cream."

WE HAD HOT tea out of a clay pot and hot buns with butter and honey and the rain clattered at the window as though it had claws and was scratching at the glass.

"I like this kind of life," she said, "but I do miss things. I haven't read anything past the tenth page in a year. Aren't people writing good plays any more?"

I wanted to say that not many were writing plays for her importance, but it seemed a shallow thing to say. So I said that, well, the fact was that so many plays right now seemed poor because the old giants—Sherwood, O'Neill and so many others—were gone. A lot of promising youngsters were coming along, but slowly. In five years—maybe. She whooped with laughter.

IN FIVE YEARS I'll either be stone dead or so uranium rich I won't even go to theatres in the audience, much less on the stage," she said. "But it would be fun, just once more, to read a play all the way through and feel that thrust of hunger to do it. To put it down and look at the ceiling and say: 'I have to do this, this is for me. It's been so long since I felt that.'"

We left after awhile. The rain still slashed and tore at people. We walked along and felt wonderment that perhaps the greatest actress in the American theatre could not get a job. And had not had one in what—two, three years? At least that long.

It's Right Nice To Be Rich

SEA ISLAND, Ga. — This is the time of year to take a vacation in an automobile, no bugs to squash on the windshield.

So Hilda and I headed south via a devious coastal route from Washington, and by the time we hit North Carolina we were eating hominy grits and red-eye gravy.

We also were pondering a sad-looking citizen in front of a gaudy tent, where the sign said the only genuine two-headed cow in the world could be seen for 25 cents. It was raining hard. There were no customers. Out front with the man was a sorry-looking buffalo on view for free.

The man, who talked like a Northerner, said business couldn't be worse; he said North Carolinians obviously were not interested in improving their minds. Neither were we. We skipped the cow with the two heads.

BY THE TIME we got to Georgia on the Ocean route (from which the ocean positively cannot be seen) the live oak trees were growing whiskers, the local accents were dripping molasses and the highway south of Savannah began to look like a neon jungle of signs advertising tourist courts.

These, I regret to report, are no bargain. Ten dollars a night now seems to be the standard price for an adequate room and bath, and even then the best bet is to inspect the place before giving the proprietor your money. A few get-rich-quick gents, I fear, are giving the tourist-court business a bad name. Even so, they're not now growing rich.

IN FRONT of the best motels we noticed a scarcity of parked cars. The Florida resort business this year may be booming, but trade along the highways does not so indicate. It was a foggy night by the time we reached Brunswick, Ga., and signs were hard to see. A tremendous big one had an arrow pointing left to St. Simon's island, and we gave it a try.

Over an assortment of bridges, island, and causeway we drove 10 miles straight out to sea, where we ran out of gas and learned simultaneously how the rich manage to stay that way. Only filling station in view was one with nondescript yellow pumps and signs saying its gasoline cost five cents less per gallon than anybody else's.

The owner said business was slow; his wealthy customers had not yet arrived in large numbers for their winter vacations.

Hilda must have looked surprised; the gas man said he catered almost exclusively to the limousine trade. He said this was not using this weapon against it. The weapon of the Salk vaccine is effective only if it is used. If, out of indifference, we leave the vaccine on the shelves and thus do not use the weapon, we are sealing the doom of some fellow citizens—perhaps even of ourselves. Another polio season is approaching. Will we be ready—as ready as we can be—for it?

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — Going to a New Year's Eve party isn't so much an adventure in enjoyment anymore as it is a gamble in survival.

It is also a test of endurance. A wise host today will refuse to admit any guest to one of these shindigs unless he can produce proof he has recently passed a physical examination and is fit enough to play college football or join the police force.

What the guest himself needs, of course, is a special one-day insurance policy, protecting him from all hazards of life, limb, mind and morals.

Why do so many Americans deliberately inflict the self-punishment upon themselves incidental to attendance at New Year's Eve?

My theory is that it is like a trip to the zoo—you meet such interesting animals, many of them bearing an almost eerie resemblance to human beings.

THE CAST OF characters at almost any party tonight will include the following:

The despairing pundit—"Russia is going to throw up a Sputnik the size of Rhode Island next April," he says. "We might as well drink and be merry. It'll all be over with us by the end of the year."

The blonde gardenener—This dizzy dame, married 15 years, likes to plant things, chiefly lipstick marks on strange men, and winds up making herself a blooming nuisance.

The night-blooming stunt man—He does a headstand for half an hour, bets he is the only one at the party who can leap over the sofa without bending his knees.

At 1 a. m., he has the Christmas tree down on the floor in a life and death struggle and is mumbling to it, "Say uncle—and I'll let you up."

THE LONG AGO and far away fellow—Suddenly he feels a need for the friends of his youth, and before the host can stop him he has put in long distance calls, at the host's expense naturally, to old pals in Hong Kong, Cairo and Sydney, Australia.

The rambling weeper—Life is too, too sad for this little lady, and she can't bear to see another year go out. If you even say "Hello" to her, she breaks into tears.

She goes from shoulder to shoulder, and when she has wept one wet, goes on to wet another. At 10:30 she is sound asleep, upside down in a chair, still crying.

The one-for-the-roads—Always the last guest to leave, he isn't content to toast just the road he is going on ("Here's to Broadway!"). He says, "And here's to the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and lesh have one for the Grand Central Parkway. And one for good old U. S. Highway 40. And for—"

There they are—just a few of the grand and glorious old lifelong friends you meet at every New Year's Eve party.

Which, by the way, is you?

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — A young woman with the mispronounceable name of Ymelda cornered me the other night and said: "I suspect, from the shiny look in your eyes, that you are getting set to do another of your daily reviews of the year. If you do, I scream!" Well, I want to hear her scream, so here goes:

Back in January, when President Eisenhower was re-inaugured, there was high wassail at the inaugural balls, but no liquor in sight. Champagne and other potables were served in the innocent-looking punch glasses used at children's parties.

The explanation: Ike didn't want photos to show the booze flowing, as at his first induction. It's a good thing they didn't snap close-ups of some of the revelers.

IN FEBRUARY King Saud of Saudi Arabia came here and lavished gifts on our notables. He gave each of the cabinet one of his shaikh costumes, which are the drier cri for desert wear, but not so suitable for those who avoid arid places. The kingly gifts caused trouble, particularly for the Deputy Chief of Protocol, who accepted a car for his wife, but there seems to be assurances for 1953 that our great won't be getting so much for nothing.

In March, our most straitlaced society matrons fought for seats at the labor racket hearings, so they could get first-hand views of bawdy house madams. The madams looked so respectable.

The Louisiana State Society gave a Mardi Gras ball here, and a masked man muscled his way through secret service men and grabbed Mrs. Vice President Nixon for a dance. Scores of our leading citizens were under suspicion for weeks until the culprit was unmasked as a minor bureaucrat who just wanted to see if he could get away with it.

In April, President Eisenhower shattered practically every traffic ordinance, speeding to his farm in Gettysburg, Pa. Other motorists, who tried to keep up with like and were halted by cops muttered loudly about favoritism. I do not insinuate it was any corollary, but shortly thereafter the Administration was accused of slowing down.

The month of showers, which brings May flowers, saw a change in the attitude of Washington correspondents toward Mr. Eisenhower. They ceased acting as if he were the archbishop of Canterbury, and began treating him like an elected official.

In May, Vice President Nixon blossomed out in a lightweight suit with a vest. This precipitated an orgy of vest-wearing among the unvested. Ever since, I have been fighting the demands of the above-mentioned young woman named Ymelda that I wear a vest, and I don't know how much longer I can hold out. I hate vests.

American distillers had a gentlemen's agreement that they wouldn't use pictures of women in liquor ads, but in early summer the Puerto Ricans started displaying bathing-suited females to plug their rum. They implied—the cads!—that women were drinking too.

IN LATE SUMMER, Senator Charles E. Potter, of Michigan, came out against pay TV on the ground that it would deprive Americans of a free look at politicians. Many regarded his theory as eccentric.

In early fall, Queen Elizabeth II of Britain and Prince Philip visited us. Everywhere they went, the husband walked two paces behind the wife. Many of us old aborigines, who live by the law of the Mohawks, considered it un-American.

In the late fall, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson declared he wasn't going to resign. Incredibly, he didn't.

The latter part of the year saw our NATO conferees return from their Christmas shopping in Paris. But we're uncertain yet what they bought.

Happy New Year!

Editors Vote Sputniks Year's Top News Story

SPACE DOG—Laika sits placidly in compartment of Sputnik II, awaiting role as first space traveler. She died in space.

By JOE WING
General Editor, AP Newsfeatures

Two metal moons lobbed into outer space by Russia made the biggest news of 1957.

Their breaking of the gravity barrier has been adjudged the year's outstanding event by the nation's top news editors in 'The Associated Press' annual poll.

The Russian achievement has had broad consequences. While the United States insisted it wasn't racing satellites, the launching quickly proved a propaganda victory for Russia. It was even likened here to a second Pearl Harbor.

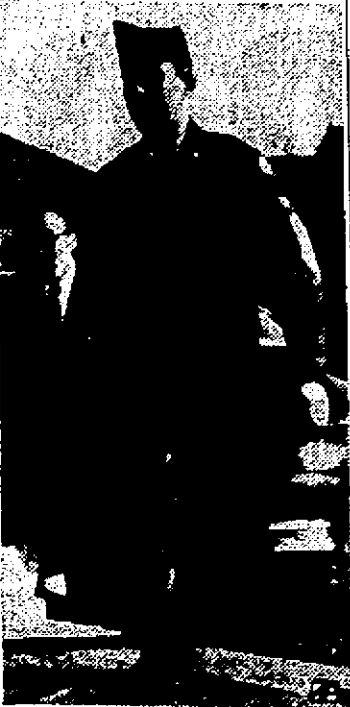

Soon President Eisenhower assured America it was still ahead in over-all military strength, appointed a science coordinator, and gave priority to the whole missile program. As the realization sank home that the beep-beep from space symbolized vast technical developments in Russia, there was soul searching by Americans on their educational and military setups.

IN CONTROL—Nikita Khrushchev waves confidently from Red Square.

Then federal troops were rushed in by presidential order. While this move insured places for the nine students in the erstwhile white school, it also spread bitterness through the South and stirred up political currents yet to be measured. "We are an occupied territory," asserted Fausbus.

The third big story was the swift rise of Nikita Khrushchev to supreme if uneasy authority in Russia. Outpacing even Stalin in his prime, Khrushchev first outmaneuvered a cabal in the central committee and banished such veteran Kremlin hands as V.M. Molotov and Georgi M. Malenkov from the party's ruling Presidium. Then, only three months later, he handed walking papers to no less a national hero than Georgi Zhukov, the defense minister, who had backed him in the previous crisis. The charge: Zhukov was seeking personal power.

CONVICTED—William Girard, slayer of Japanese woman, walks to trial.

When Sputnik II stole a second march on the world, however, the Russians themselves were surprised because the Western man-on-the-street turned his attention largely to the doomed dog that traveled the silent skies to a lonesome death within the half-ton satellite.

A close second on the editors' list of biggest news events was the Little Rock story.

Although a large number of schools were desegregated in the South last fall in line with the Supreme Court decision, troubles in a few spots, and in Little Rock most of all, cornered national interest.

National Guard Called

At Little Rock, Gov. Orval Faubus threw Arkansas national guardsmen around Central High School to "maintain order," after a federal court ordered all persons to refrain from interference with proposed integration of the school. The guardsmen turned away nine Negroes scheduled to enter the school but were withdrawn after three weeks under court order. When the nine did enter school a riot occurred despite police efforts.

idly by in any such event.

America was warning right back against Russian intervention. There were appeals to the United Nations, a U. S. airlift of tanks to Jordan, Turkish maneuvers, an Egyptian troop movement to Syria. And then Khrushchev barged into a Turkish diplomatic party and said, in effect, to forget it, there would be no war.

Other top stories, in the order the news editors placed them:

The Best Stories of 1957

1. Sputniks launched.
2. Little Rock story.
3. Khrushchev emerges at top in Kremlin.
4. Teamster Union hearings.
5. Middle East crisis.
6. Hurricane Audrey.
7. Eisenhower's latest illness.
8. Asian flu.
9. Girard case.
10. Civil rights bill passed.

Audrey Devastating

Hurricane Audrey. Most devastating since the northeastern storm of 1938, its tidal wave swamped the southeastern corner of Louisiana. Dead and missing numbered 539, property loss 40 million dollars.

The President's mild stroke. This story broke after some ballots were in the mail and most editors had to assess it while it developed. The story caused dodos in the stock market, as was the case in previous presidential illnesses in 1936 and 1955, and smoked up once more the issue of establishing succession procedure for an ailing president in case of necessity.

The Asian flu. An epidemic that swept out of Hong Kong to envelop the Far East and then America was notable for its low death rate.

The Girard case. A young Illinois soldier in Japan, William S. Girard, shot and killed a Japanese woman on a target range and became an international issue. America won good will by turning him over to a Japanese court which convicted him of manslaughter and gave him a suspended sentence.

Civil rights bill. The first civil rights bill passed by the U. S. Senate in 82 years, a comparatively mild measure, was enacted despite a one-man filibuster by Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who dragged out the fight against the wishes of his Southern colleagues.

Baltimore Street Bridge Reopened

The temporary Baltimore Street Bridge was reopened to traffic late yesterday afternoon after Western Maryland Railway crews raised a temporary track at the crossing.

The track was laid about two weeks ago to carry traffic over the temporary trestle which will be used until a new steel bridge is built at that point.

Women Take To Sacks And Barrels

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Fashion came by the sack or the barrel in 1957.

Maybe it was because of general world unrest or the frightening sight of man-made moons zooming around the heavens. Maybe it was the result of simple desperation on the part of designers searching for something to startle the public. Whatever the reason, women reverted to the styles of 30 years ago, with the sack and the barrel silhouettes the big news in fashion.

The beltless, shapeless sack dress (also known as the chemise and the shift) was as important on the 1957 style horizon as it was back among the flappers of 1927. And the barrel skirt and coat ran it a close second. So once more women's fashions became the center of a storm of controversy unmatched since the late Christian Dior announced the abolition of the bosom.

The fashion world drew up its battle lines. Families were divided against each other. Some designers cried: "Never!" Others shouted: "Of course!" Some women announced that they wouldn't be caught dead in one of the new creations. Others went mad for the sacks and bought them in all colors. Husbands laid down the law and wives wept.

Vive La Chemise

As usual, despite all the tumult and the shouting, the new fashion caught on. American designers, with their usual skill, succeeded in retaining the essentials of the chemise line and still making it fairly wearable, except for ladies with size 48 hips, who don't look very well in any other style anyway.

Dresses which looked like freaks when they first arrived from Paris were adapted, modified, copied down and gently urged upon a public which, after recovering from its first state of shock, began to murmur: "Well, they're really not so bad after all, are they?"

It was found that the beltless silhouette actually looked smart on tall, slender girls, and so short, fat girls, as usual, started wearing them too, in the fond belief that this would make them look like their willowy sisters.

With the new unfitted sacks, something had to be done to take the mind off the general slack look of the feminine populace, so accessories became terrifically important. Women took to wearing great ropes of beads, elaborate costume jewelry, king-size earrings and armfuls of bracelets.

Fur hats this winter were practically a uniform, along with the ubiquitous mink stole. Some women went in for matching fur handbags, or carried muffs.

Shoes staged a fashion revolution of their own, emerging with long, pointed toes and needle heels. Last year's shoes suddenly looked stubby and out of date, and the footwear business boomed.

With the understated look of the dress, hairdos also became more important, and the tousled, windblown look was the thing for women's crowning glory. This was not the boyish bob of the 1920's, but a fluffier, slightly longer hair style, with more width at the sides.

Colored Stockings

The all-one-color look also was advocated by top designers, and women started wearing shoes, stockings, hats and gloves to match their dresses.

It was a year of unrest, of frantic dissension and of considerable nostalgia in the world of fashion — a year when the greatest single influence on the modes of the moment was Gabrielle Chanel, who first introduced the vogue of the uncorseted look, the sweater-and-skirt with a rope of pearls, in Paris back in 1925.

It was the year that saw the passing of fashion's reigning monarch, Christian Dior, who had set the pace for the Paris haute couture each season until his sudden death in the fall, exactly a decade after his spectacular debut.

It was a year when a woman could wear a gunnysack, a rope of pearls and a mink hat, and be in the height of fashion.

The Canadian National Railways has announced the appointment of William T. Wilson as vice-president, personnel. Before joining the rail system in 1950, Mr. Wilson was deputy chairman and controller of the Maritime Prices and Trade Board.

Workers On Home Injured In Fall

Two men were injured yesterday afternoon while working on the old Roman property on Washington Street.

The men, Frank J. Brown Jr., 30, and Kenneth Gray, 16, of Bowman's Addition, were injured when a second-floor wall collapsed knocking them two floors to the basement of the property.

Most seriously hurt was Brown, operator of the Cumberland Salvage Company, Valley Road, which on December 18 began the demolition of the home to make room for the new St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Brown was trapped under the bricks and debris and had to be freed by his fellow workers.

He sustained a possible fractured lower left leg and abrasions of the left leg, according to authorities at Memorial Hospital.

Gray sustained abrasions of the chest. He was not covered by the debris and was able to free himself and assist in the rescue of Brown. He was released after being treated at Memorial Hospital.

Five other men working on the wrecking job combined their efforts to free Brown and give him first aid. They included Eugene Friend, 41, RD 2, Williams Road, foreman on the job, and James Rummer, 25; Paul Nazelrod, 21; Omer Nazelrod, 29 and George Weaver, 28 all of Bowman's Addition.

Auto Wrecks Claim Lives Of 23 People

Property Damage In Allegany And Garrett Very High

By WILLIAM E. KELLY

Times Staff Writer

When the chimes strike twelve at midnight today residents of the Cumberland area will be relaxed in an atmosphere of joyous excitement, but traffic-wise they will be beginning what might be another tragic year in Allegany and Garrett counties.

A quick check of accident reports in Allegany and Garrett counties at the Maryland State Police barracks in LaVale reveals one of the saddest tales.

During the year 1957 on county and state roads in Allegany and Garrett a total of 23 persons met death and property damage was estimated at more than $2,779,805.

These figures, as high as they may seem, merely represent a small fraction in the damage caused by automobile accidents in the two counties, since the reports of the State Police do not cover accidents which occurred within the limits of the municipalities of the counties.

23 Persons Killed
The year 1957 in the counties saw 21 fatal accidents in which 23 persons were killed, a total of 225 injury accidents with 313 persons injured and property damage resulting from 773 crashes.

The age range of persons killed ran from 13 months to 83 years, with Mrs. Ella Nora Weber, Baltimore, being the oldest and little Jimmy Anderson, Washington, the youngest.

The year saw only 12 days old when Cecil A. Tomlinson, 78, of RD 1, Frostburg, was killed while walking along State Route 36, one mile south of Frostburg.

Car Rolled Over
A day later Daniel E. Rankin, 22, of Eckhart Mines, rolled his car over on U. S. Route 40 at Clarysville and became the second fatality in the county.

On the first day of February 1957 Robert C. Marshall, 16, of Moorefield, met death when the car in which he was riding smashed into a fixed object on State Route 135 on Church Street in Westernport.

The first "double fatality" of the year occurred on February 10 when Edward Lewis Youngblood, 41, and his wife, Phyllis Youngblood, 39, were killed on State Route 51 approximately 10 miles south of Cumberland.

As the March winds blew, our two counties sustained the worst month as far as traffic fatalities were concerned. Killed in March were Shirley Jean Smith, 27, RD 5, Cresaptown, on U. S. Route 220 two miles north of Cresaptown; James M. Anderson, Washington, 13 months, on U. S. Route 40 seven miles west of Frostburg in Garrett County; Ella Nora Weber, 83, Baltimore, on U. S. Route 40 on the east side of Martins Mountain, and William E. Longstreth, 50, of Haleshorpe, Md., on U. S. Route 40 eight miles west of Frostburg in Garrett County.

Only One in April
April was a "good" month with the only fatality being little Larry Warnick, age 4, of Grantsville, who was killed when a car door became unlatched and he fell out. The tragedy occurred on private property five miles west of Grantsville in Garrett County.

The month of May saw Alva Walter Gore, 49, being killed when the car he was driving crashed into a fixed object on the west slope of Town Hill, and Patricia Lee Trenton, 28, Cumberland, died following a one-car mishap on U. S. Route 219 just three miles south of Keyser Ridge in Garrett County.

In June 25-year-old Robert E. L. Hawk, Frostburg, was killed when the car he was driving ran off State Route 36 two miles north of Westernport.

Had Heart Attack
The same month was fatal for Wheeler Frank Engle, 59, of RD 2, Frostburg, who was killed in a crash on Route 36 at Wrights Crossing. A final report stated that Mr. Engle had suffered a heart attack just before the accident.

On July 16 Jessie Thrasher, 70, Washington, was killed when the car in which she was riding ran off State Route 38 at Kitzmiller and the cause of the accident is still unknown.

On the same day Earl S. Weishaar, 50, of Frostburg, died after the vehicle he was driving collided with another vehicle on Route 40 at Clarysville.

On the last day in July Edward Robertson, 26, Lonaconing, and Calvin C. Thrasher, 33, Midland, were killed instantly when the car Robertson was driving tore out two utility poles on Route 36 south of Gilmore.

The following month Randall E. Loudermilk, 17, was killed when the car he was driving struck a fixed object on State Route 42 six miles east of Friendsville. Little Connie Jean Crabtree, age 11, was also killed this month when she was struck by a vehicle while walking along Route 51 approximately 10 miles south of Oldtown.

Killed In Garage
The only fatality during the month of August occurred on the second day when Harold Emerick, 47, Ellerslie, was killed while working on his jeep in the basement of the Corriganville Fire Hall.

Good Year In County Schools

By C. A. LANCASTER

Times Staff Writer

It was "Happy Old Year" as Allegany County Board of Education officials today reflected back on the school situation in 1957.

From a physical standpoint, approximately $2,500,000 in new school facilities was completed, and several other crucial projects instituted.

From the education standpoint, the county continued to have fairly good luck in obtaining a sufficient number of teachers to staff the schools, although the pinch has been felt.

In the addition of facilities, the students of the Westernport area moved into the new Bruce High School located in Greene's Addition after the Easter holidays.

Asset To Community

The cost of this project, complete with equipment, ran about $2,000,000 and became an asset to the community where a $500,000 expansion program is underway at the major industry, the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

With the influx of technical personnel and the addition in the future of plant workers, more classrooms will be needed in that community. Bruce High fits the bill.

The Old Bruce High School building is being remodeled to replace the aging Hammond Street School.

In September, the children of the Valley Road and Bowman's Addition started out the new school year in a spanking new building.

Northeast School Opened

Northeast Elementary School was completed in late August. Its use takes the pressure off West Side and Columbia Street schools, to which the pupils from this section were transported by bus.

Working plans for the auditorium were completed for the addition to Allegany High School. This structure to be located on what is now the east end of the athletic field will house a gymnasium and music department facilities.

The old Allegany gym, smallest in the county, will be replaced by a library. When AHS gets its new gym, Allegany County high schools will have modern courts of similar size.

Field Work Stated

The Board of Education also got under its way a project to relieve a drainage condition on one end of the Valley High School athletic field.

In the offing is work on the Mt. Savage High School athletic field.

However, 1957 saw the completion or start of a modern building program that started ten years ago.

In contrast to other communities, counties in Maryland, Allegany County's pupils are getting full days at school, and not half-day sessions because of a shortage of classrooms as it is in other parts of Maryland.

Not Much Change

Looking at the education side of the year, there were no drastic changes in teaching. But 1957, with the emphasis on missiles and Sputniks, saw a surge in students taking higher mathematics and sciences.

Teachers and supervisors placed greater emphasis in these subjects, and the efforts bore fruit, although not as much as anticipated.

Emphasis has also been placed in the study of foreign languages, especially Latin, in view of the shrinking world.

Teachers for these special subjects have been obtained, although at times the shortage among these instructors was felt.

The school system remained the No. 1 expenditure of the taxpayers' money as the county has over 15,000 students enrolled, about the same as last year.

Pair On List For Board

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher and former State Senator William A. Gunter are included in a list of lawyer nominees submitted to Governor McKeldin for possible appointment by February 1 to a new five-man Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The names were submitted by the Maryland Bar Association, according to The Associated Press.

The governor may name a chairman and four commissioners after Feb. 1. They will replace a State Industrial Accident Commission which has heard since 1914 contested cases arising from the workmen's compensation law.

St. Luke's Church Gets Tax Exemption

Acting on a motion by Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson, Allegany County Board of Commissioners today granted a tax exemption on 6.7 acres of land owned by St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Voters Write Story In City In Past Year

Bond Issue, Tax Limitation Actions Said Major Moves

By JOHN E. BYRD

Evening Times Staff Writer

It wasn't an election year but Cumberland voters wrote the No. 1 developments in municipal affairs during 1957.

Members of the official family, City Hall sources and observers selected the voters' petition for a referendum on a proposed $500,000 urban development bond issue as the top municipal occurrence of the year. The city had resolved to sell the bonds in May but a petition by voters and a subsequent ruling in Allegany County Circuit Court made a referendum on the issue mandatory. Had no petition been filed within 40 days after the issue was proposed, a referendum would not have been necessary.

A vote on the issue is still pending.

Reject Limitation Hike

And along the same line, voters rejected a proposal to increase the city's tax limitation from $1.25 to $1.50. The city wanted the extra 25 cents as a "cushion" for operating expenses and to give a wage increase to employees. After the plan was rejected, no wage increase was granted. The city said approval of the limitation increase did not mean the entire 25 cents would be applied to the tax rate but many in the opposition camp believed that to be the case. In fact, it became most popularly known as a move for "a 25-cent tax increase."

These two issues and the completion of the $2,000,000 sewage treatment plant in South End led the opinion polls. The sewage plant was dedicated December 6 and is a major step in clearing up pollution of the Potomac River, an improvement to the community's health and an invitation to new industry.

Some opposition arose to the sewage treatment fee based on 75 per cent of the minimum rate charged for water but it was mostly on an individual basis and not organized.

Financial Improvement

Like the average wage earner and housewife, the city watched its pennies, too, with the picture presenting a marked contrast.

While the financial status improved, there was no additional revenue to improve services or increase them. For the first time in three years, Cumberland is eligible to be restored to good standing by many financial sources where securities limitations are six per cent of the taxable property. As of June 30, the net debt payable from ad valorem taxes was $3,239,000 or 5.96 per cent of the real estate base of $54,302,650.

In connection with the financial end of municipal operations, several pointed out that to all intents and purposes the final city payment toward construction of the flood control project was made near the end of the year. The city and county's overall share of the $18,000,000 project is $3,250,000 of which $2,250,000 was contributed by the city and $1,000,000 by Allegany County. The project is scheduled for completion in 1958.

Boulevard Advertised

Coupled with the financial end of flood control, another major development was completion of the mill race and Riedgley pumping station which will afford partial flood protection for Riedgley and the Winnow Street area.

Other top developments included: Advertisement of the Industrial Boulevard in South End from Evitts Creek to West Street, the first segment of the more than $12,000,000 Cumberland Thruway project.

Rehabilitation of the filtration system at Lake Gordon.

Negotiations on property in connection with the $40 yard expansion project.

Resignation of the Cumberland Recreation Board and the recreation director N. Gwynn Fletcher, in what was construed as a protest to council's failure to approve a consolidated program which would have included parks and recreation. The board has not been reactivated.

'CARD SHOWER' MAKES HIM HAPPY — One of the better human interest stories of the year occurred in its waning days when residents of the area made a seven-year-old spinal meningitis patient happier and helped speed his recovery. Michael Kline of Paw Paw is shown above with some of the cards he received from well-wishers after his grandmother asked for a "card shower" for the boy who was a patient in Memorial Hospital. The happiest ending to this episode came yesterday when Michael, shown earlier in the day, was discharged and returned to his home.

Protest Made Against Gas Mileage Bills

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson today made a strong protest against payment of the gasoline mileage bills submitted to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners by five assessors and the two top officials of the Assessing Department.

The bills for gasoline mileage for the month of December were as follows:

Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, $75.36; William H. Lemmert, assistant supervisor, $74.96; Francis J. Plummer, $74.12; W. Edward Eichner, $75.04 and David E. Kirk, $75.04. The last three men are assessors.

Commissioner Wilkinson charged that Lemmert (who assumed his post December 2) "has not been out of the building." The commissioner also pointed to the bills which he said were not filled out properly as there is no listing of the speedometer reading at the start of the month and no speedometer reading for the end of the month.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said that the bills must be approved by Nicholson as head of the department and that it has been the custom in the past to pay them after approval. Wilson retorted that the bills should be filled out properly.

Commissioner James Orr sided with Wilson in the "debate" which followed.

Tax Rate Unchanged
The county tax rate was unchanged last April when the commissioners set the annual levy at $2.15 per $100 of assessable property.

Completion of the access road into the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Work 7 at North Branch was the major road project. The county provided more than $450,000 for the work.

Facilities in the office of Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden are currently being modernized with new desks, filing cabinets and other furnishings being installed.

The old wooden doors and vestibule at the Court House entrance were removed and a modern entrance comprised of glass and aluminum was installed. The cost was about $6,000.

Podium Purchased
Air conditioning units were installed in the various offices during the past summer.

A podium was placed in the Circuit Court room for the use of attorneys in presenting their cases to juries.

Estel C. Kelley, local attorney, resigned as a member of the House of Delegates, to assume a post on Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners. Position was vacant due to completion of term of Walter C. Capper, who had been chairman of the board.

Orr New President
Commissioner James Orr became president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners when William H. Lemmert resigned his board position. Orr also became member of County Welfare Board as county's representative.

Office Changes Made 1957 News

By EUGENE P. BROWN

Times Staff Writer

Highlights of 1957 at Allegany County Court House ranged from the resignation of William H. Lemmert as president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to the placing in operation of the new dog law.

Lemmert gave up his position on the county board after 11 years service to assume his new duties as assistant supervisor of assessments. Appointed to fill out his unexpired term was William A. Wilson, a native of Cumberland who now resides in Midland.

All county employees were also placed under a Civil Service system after many years in which the "spoils system" prevailed. The new Civil Service system does not prohibit political activity on the part of county employees.

Some Health Challenges Facing 1958

Extensive Polio Shot Campaign Proves Success

By PATRICK A. TIERNEY

Times Staff Writer

The Allegany County Health Department faces 1958 with two new problems that must be disposed of immediately, after completing a banner year highlighted by the completion of one of the largest inoculation projects ever undertaken.

New standards of efficiency in public health services were set under the direction of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, who retired May 1 after ten years as Allegany County health officer and many more in various County Health Department positions.

The new year finds a new county health officer, Dr. Ton van Strein, in charge. It will be his job to see that the added burdens will be completed with dispatch and efficiency despite having a smaller work staff.

Four Staff Changes

The year 1957 found four other veteran Health Department officials, besides Dr. Frantz resigning. They were Dr. Karl W. Kolb, county dentist; Walter E. (Pat) Kline, sanitarian, and Miss Rose Loibel and Miss Anna Hardy, long-time members of the Health Department's nursing staff.

New additions to the staff, besides Dr. van Strein, are Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenmeyer, who has taken over Miss Loibel's duties, and Gaylord Brooks 3rd, who succeeds Kline.

Dr. van Strein said the major problems facing his department are the expansion of the restaurant program to include all eating and drinking establishments in Allegany County.

J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian who heads the work, said the expansion represents an increase of approximately a third in the number of places that will be placed under rules and regulations of the State Health Department.

Similar To City's

The program is similar to the one that has been in effect in Cumberland since 1945, Dowling said. Details of this project will be explained in a meeting early next month, he said.

Probably the biggest task facing the Health Department, Dr. van Strein said, is the Georges Creek sanitation program. Enormous in scope, the health officer said much time will be spent in intensive planning and an educational program aimed at explaining the fundamental need of the program to the general public.

The necessity of the Georges Creek sanitation program, he continued, is apparent from the amount of evidence on hand in reports from county and state officials. The public, Dr. van Strein stressed, must be made aware of the actual savings which will be realized once the "preventative medicine" plan is an actuality.

Aims Listed

Dr. van Strein said his foremost aims will be an intensive reorganization of the nursing services provided by the Health Department, the building up of the nursing staff to full strength (there are now 13 public health nurses and a minimum of 17 is felt to be the minimum needed), expansion of certain phases of nursing care—which in itself may call for more nurses, and the possible addition of bedside care to the duties of the nurses.

The most impressive facet of the multitude of services provided by the Allegany County Health Department was the polio inoculation program.

Set up by the nursing staff under the direction of Dr. Frantz, it has easily accomplished its primary aim—to provide complete protection from crippling polio by administration of Salk vaccine.

The success of the program is made apparent with the disclosure that the Allegany County Health Department personnel has administered more inoculations than any other county in Maryland. The recommended three shots have been given to all the parochial and public school students whose parents have signed consent slips, department spokesmen said.

The only students who have not received the recommended number of inoculations are those who failed to qualify because of colds, virus ailments and other illnesses. These are expected to be completed in the near future, it was stated.

37,709 Inoculations Given
A total of 37,709 polio inoculations have been given either in school or clinics, spokesmen said. This includes 12,323 first shots, 11,482 second shots, and 13,904 third shots. The total will be swelled to a larger figure when December reports are made up, the 37,709 figure representing only that period from March, when the program was inaugurated, through November.

Peak months for the period were March, when some 7,000 shots were given, and November, when 5,000 were administered. (Continued on Page 2)

County Board Against C&A Rate Increase

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today adopted a resolution formerly protesting the application of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company for a rate increase.

The resolution points out that the gas rate increase request is the fourth such request made by the utility in the past five years.

It was also cited that the Public Service Commission granted a rate increase of 22 per cent in 1953 designed to produce increased revenues in the amount of $400,000, followed by a second overall increase of 14 per cent in 1954 of $366,000 and in 1956 the third increase of between $98,000 and $120,000 in added revenues.

The resolution states that a brochure prepared in connection with the 1956 application reports that "utility regulation calls for rate-making to protect consumers."

On behalf of the residents of the county, the county board states that the newest rate increase request is "totally unwarranted" and the PSC is urged to consider the protection of the consumers in connection with the application.

The commissioners urge the PSC to consider the C&A application, with a view to "protecting the consumers" rather than guaranteeing to "those whose savings are invested in the utility" a return on that investment irrespective of the operating practices of the management of the petitioning utility.

H. B. Williams Retires Here
Harry B. Williams, 219 Saratoga Street, first assistant manager of G. C. Murphy Company store here, retired today.

Williams, who came here just after World War I, completed 20 years' service with the Murphy Company in May. Prior to that he had been an employee of McMullen Brothers.

Williams is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, of the Official Board of the church, a Mason, member of the Kiwanis Club and Chamber of Commerce. He was head of the merchants' division of the Chamber for two years.

Married to the former Miss Eugenia H. Hammond, Williams is the father of three children: Mrs. Mary Rohman, Mrs. Jean Keefeauver and Thomas Williams, all of this city.

Williams' successor as first assistant manager of Murphy's is Floyd Valentine of LaVale.

Weather Outlook Bleak In Section
As the year rolls around to its finale, the Baltimore office of the Weather Bureau closes its 1957 files with a bleak outlook.

The forecast for Allegany and Washington counties calls for occasional rain possibly mixed with some snow and lows between 32 and 35 degrees. Tomorrow is to be cloudy with rain or snow flurries and turning colder.

As for Garrett County, the bureau predicts snow is to begin late today, with tonight seeing rain or snow, and lows between 30 and 33 degrees. Tomorrow is to have some snow changing to snow flurries and turning colder.

Four Baltimoreans made themselves the laughing stock of Western Maryland's deer country when they asked Game Warden Joseph Minke if they could check a deer alive. It turned out to be a billy goat with small, button horns. (Continued on Page 2)

People Were Like People In '57

By DAN DONAHUE

BALTIMORE (AP) — People were right on being people in Maryland in 1957, let the Sputniks tell where they may.

Take Stewart Dize of Baltimore, for example. To see if gasoline was leaking from the overturned motorboat in his garage, he soaked a stick and lit it. The fire destroyed the garage and $3,000 boat.

Richard Lee May, 25-year-old Cockeysville steel rigger, proved that he was keeping calm in the rocket age.

When he fell 30 feet on his job he walked to a police station and told officers he thought he had broken something. He was right: five fractures of his arm, a broken wrist, fractured fingers and several broken ribs.

Anthony Ritchie, 56, was the impatient type. When Baltimore Magistrate James F. Fansen asked him why he didn't have a home, Ritchie said, "Cut out the chatter and get down to business." Fansen quickly gave him 30 days.

Motorists had their share of trouble, as usual.

John Edward Gale was driving along Lake Street in Salisbury faithfully following directions of his passenger, Charles W. Winder. When Winder suddenly said, "Turn here," Gale did, slammed into a concrete retaining wall.

In Centreville, Thomas Lowman had his fill of drivers when a car rammed into his service station at the intersection of U. S. Rts. 213 and 300. It was at least the eighth time in the past 10 years.

A Baltimore motorist may have encountered a frustrated hitchhiker. When he stopped his car to ask directions on North Ave. the man refused saying, "I'm a pedestrian. I don't help cars."

Kids will be kids, it seems, in any year.

A 13-year-old boy was tossed out of a drive-in theater in Hagers town. So he: smashed all the windows, broke out the driveway lights, tore down the entrance sign and cut the wires to the sound system.

In Baltimore, a 13-year-old bride refused to go back to her 18-year-old husband. She told the judge it was because he spanked her.

Mrs. J. L. Hayes of Annapolis came up with some short-circuit language of the small fry. "Sir, engine" is a fire engine with siren wailing; "bellophone," a ringing telephone, and "underbrella," an umbrella in use.

The animals were trying hard to keep up with their two-footed friends.

In Worcester County, Bailey Disharoon shot a deer and bent over to inspect his prize. The buck gave a dying kick, knocking out one of Disharoon's front teeth.

Charles Brasse Jr. of Towson claimed it was all an accident when his dog, Zero, was issued license 12345—just before its sixth birthday.

Women's Missionary Group Holds Planning Session

Little 1957 Time Remains

As we wait for the end of 1957, it's hard to believe that a whole year has passed. In a matter of hours 1957 will be just one of the milestones that "Father Time" has left behind him.

As the "Old Man" with his white flowing beard, scythe over his shoulder, and the hour glass in hand, goes down the trail, only a few grains of sand remain. Looking at those grains of sand will bring back many memories.

Yes, '57 will have its memories. No doubt "Sputnik" will be one of the top-liners. President Eisenhower's illness should also be at or near the top. The Braves with Lou Burdette won the world baseball crown. Crop production again topped many records.

Yes, those grains of sand bring back many memories to each of us, but "Father Time" does not slow down for us to think about the past. He just keeps moving down the road.

The sand is almost gone, and as we look we see him fade over the hill and in his place a "Babe" in short pants is coming toward us. As he comes closer, we see the happy smile and with it we gain courage to start another trip down that long, uncertain trail.

As we watch, a bright, red ribbon appears on this "Babe," with a bright sign, and as it comes closer we see that it says: "Happy New Year 1958!"

Soldier Promoted

KEYSER—Delbert Tichnell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Tichnell, New Creek Drive, recently was promoted to private first class while serving with the Army in Germany. A 1954 graduate of Keyser High School, he entered the service in May and was sent overseas in August.

To Observe Feast

MT. SAVAGE—St. Patrick's Catholic Church will observe the Feast of the Circumcision tomorrow with masses at 7 and 9:30 a.m. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will follow the 9:30 mass.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary will receive Holy Communion Sunday at the 7 a.m. mass.

Keyser Court Fines Clubs In Piedmont

KEYSER—Managers of four Piedmont clubs were fined $100 and $5 costs each by Justice of the Peace Madelyn Bazzle here yesterday on charges of illegal possession of liquor.

Fined were Tina Dominick of the Sons of Italy Club, Nicola Knights of Columbus, Alleda Collins of Piedmont Lodge 1120, Loyal Order of Moose, and Allie Green of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion.

They all entered pleas of nolo contendere at the hearing. The effect of such a plea is neither to deny nor admit the facts.

Six West Virginia State Police and the Mineral County Sheriff conducted the raids on the four establishments Sunday night, December 22. Participants were Sgt. W. F. Bowley, Cpl. C. G. Hamrick, Troopers C. C. Oliver, R. V. Noschel, J. C. Ramsburg and Jack Baker and Sheriff W. O. Mott.

West Virginia law prohibits the sale of liquor except at state stores.

Both the American Legion and Moose clubs were raided in March and their managers were fined in April.

Hearing Held

Three Keyser area residents, including a 14-year-old boy, were given preliminary hearings yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Bazzle on charges of violating the West Virginia game laws.

Miss Elizabeth Workman, Maple Street, is home after visiting relatives in Pittsburgh. Mrs. William Grunne, Washington, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Belle Feidt, West Main Street.

Miss Lillian Stapleton returned to Washington following a visit with her sister, Mrs. Bernadette Finn, Broadway.

Miss Mary Margaret Kelly, Washington, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly, East Main Street.

Miss Agnes Joyce, called here by the death of her brother, William Joyce, has returned to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kemp, Cleveland, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Fred Kemp, Welsh Hill.

Miss Cecelia Spates has returned to Alexandria, Va., following a visit with her brother and sister, William Spates and Miss Katie Spates, Broadway.

Paul Passarelli, who visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Passarelli, West First Street, has returned to Washington.

Daniel Bahren is home after a visit with his sister, Mrs. Bessie Moody, Baltimore.

Miss Eleanor McLane, Arlington, Va., is visiting her sister, Miss Anna McLane, West Main Street.

Republicans' Victory Voted Top W. Va. Story

CHARLESTON—Changes that went with the holding of new political colors at the statehouse for the first time since 1933 were voted the top West Virginia news story of 1957.

Mine and flood disasters; and a searching study of West Virginia public schools by a team of home-grown experts also ranked among the biggest stories in an Associated Press poll of daily newspaper editors in the state.

Here, in the order in which they stood in the poll tabulation, are the year's top 10 stories:

(1) The state's first Republican administration since 1929-33. It began on Jan. 14 with the inauguration of Cecil H. Underwood, at 34 the youngest governor in the state's history. The story of the new administration was a continuing one throughout the year.

Underwood brought in his own team to run departments that are under the governor's control. But with Democrats still in command in the Legislature and the Board of Public Works, the story often reverberated with partisan cross-fire.

Mine Disaster

(2) The Bishop mine disaster. An explosion on Feb. 4 killed 37 men in the Pocahontas Fuel Co.'s Bishop, Va., mine. While the deadline was Bishop, Va., the mine straddles the West Virginia-Virginia border and is under West Virginia jurisdiction. It was this state's heaviest loss of life in a mine accident in 15 years.

(Only last Friday, an explosion killed 11 miners in the Amonate, Va., mine of Pocahontas Fuel. It is only a few miles from Bishop and also a West Virginia mine despite the post office address.)

(3) The Southern West Virginia floods of Jan. 29-30. The Big Sandy, Guyandotte and Tug Rivers and lesser streams inundated business and residential districts in mountain towns not accustomed to coping with high water.

(4) The Southern West Virginia floods of Jan. 29-30. The Big Sandy, Guyandotte and Tug Rivers and lesser streams inundated business and residential districts in mountain towns not accustomed to coping with high water.

(5) Allocation of West Virginia of additional mileage in the Interstate Highway System. The federal government will pay 90 percent of the cost of the 41,000-mile system, but in the original allocation West Virginia got only about 207 miles.

(6) Dissatisfied with its share, West Virginia teamed up with Ohio in a campaign for a bigger allocation. In November came the announcement that 400 miles between Canton, Ohio, and Charlotte, N.C., now linked by U.S. 21—had been added to the Interstate System. This meant additional mileage for West Virginia stretching from Williamsport, on the Ohio River near Parkersburg, to the Virginia border near Princeton.

(7) The May 27 murder of Mrs. Ruby Miller, wife of a prominent Huntington contractor. She was bludgeoned to death by an intruder in her home.

(8) A 40-year-old handyman with a long police record, Elmer David

(9) You want an apartment... We have them... furnished or unfurnished. Harris Apartments, 49 E. Main. Adv.—N-T-Dec. 13-17-20-24-27-31.

Piedmont Woman's Club To Hear Heart Program Plans

PIEDMONT—The monthly meeting of the Piedmont Woman's Club will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in First Presbyterian Church, according to Mrs. Edrie Pence, president.

The Allegheny County Heart Association program will be presented to the club. Refreshments will be served.

Hostesses will be Mrs. George Nealis, chairman, Mrs. Nellie Beckner, Mrs. James Ott, Mrs. Flo Clower and Mrs. Virgil Spriggs.

League To Open
The Church Basketball League will open Saturday, January 11. The first practices of the seven prospective teams who participate will be held this Saturday afternoon.

Churches were represented at a meeting held recently in Trinity Methodist Church with John E. Grindle, president of the league, presiding. The seven teams represented were Bloomington Methodist, First Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist of Piedmont, St. Peter's Catholic, Evangelical United Brethren, Mt. Calvary Lutheran and Christ Memorial Baptist of Westernport.

Another meeting will be held at Trinity Church Friday at 7:30 p.m. to approve the 42-game schedule which is being drawn up. Each team will play six games.

There will not be any minimum age limit but 16 years is the maximum.

A board of directors will be elected at the next meeting. It is planned to have one director for each month. Getting sufficient people to supervise the games has been one of the chief problems in the past, and it is hoped that better cooperation will be had from all of the churches.

Tars Given One Point Over Rice In Cotton

By JOHN CLARY
The Associated Press
Fourteen college football teams will clash in New Year's Day bowl games.

Oklahoma and Duke begin the fireworks before 60,000 at Miami's Orange Bowl, and a nationwide TV audience (CBS). The Sooners are a solid 10-point favorite now before the game that quarterback Carl Dodd is back for full-time duty after an ankle sprain during Saturday's game.

Coach Bill Murray's Blue Devils still feel that halfback Hal McElhenny can undo the Sooners. He is their answer to Oklahoma's halfback Clendon Thomas, Coach Bud Wilkinson's main offensive threat.

Rebels By Three
Several hundred miles to the southwest 80,000 will be at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans to see if they can answer the question: How come Texas and the University of Mississippi surprised everyone this year?

Mississippi is given a three-point edge because of over-all team speed, but Texas Coach Darrell Royal feels his defense will take care of that. NBC will televise.

Probably the day's most interesting game will be in Dallas' Cotton Bowl before 75,000 when Navy and Rice go at it. Navy is a one-point favorite, which doesn't mean too much to Coach Eddie Erdtatz, who feels the loss of Middle guard Tony Stremic might cost Navy the game.

Stremic is not definitely out of the game but a badly bruised shin will limit his effectiveness as a middle guard, at least. On the other side, Rice has reserve quarterback Frank Ryan, back for the first time since the early part of the season, to back up All-American King Hill.

Rose Luster Dimmed
The game will be telecast (CBS) Ohio State's 20-point paper advantage over Oregon has dimmed to a degree the usual luster of the Rose Bowl, but Oregon's Len Canasova is quick to point to the record of not losing by more than seven points in any of his team's three losses.

The Ducks have Don Clark, their leading ground-gainer, healthy for the first time since mid-November, and Bob White, the man who took his offensive burden that gained Ohio victories over Iowa and Michigan.

The game, before the usual 100,000 sellout, will be telecast by NBC.

At El Paso, Tex., Drake (7-1) and Louisville (8-1) tangle in the Sun Bowl, while in Houston, Tex., Southern (7-3) and Prairie View (6-3) meet before 20,000 in the Prairie View Bowl.

The last bowl game of the day, a night affair in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., features Mississippi Southern (8-1) and East Texas State (8-1).

Navy Solid Choice
Of Sports Writers
DALLAS — Navy is a 1-point favorite to beat Rice in the Cotton Bowl and the sports writers generally agree it will be a close one. Few of them can see more than seven points difference.

Navy is a solid choice of the writers to win the game tomorrow. Of 24 polled, 15 chose the Midshipmen and 9 took Rice.

Even the Texas writers were divided in their opinions. Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas News; Blackie Sherrod of the Fort Worth Press; Dick Freeman of the Houston Chronicle; Ted Battles of the Midland, Tex., Reporter-Telegram; Shelby Seales of International News Service, and Jim Lawson of the Dallas Times Herald went against Rice.

Eastern and midwestern writers all favored Navy except Ed Prell of the Chicago Tribune, who chose Rice by a touchdown.

Most of the experts figured it would be a high-scoring game, some taking a 28-21 result.

Tri-Towns Cage
League To Open
The Tri-Towns Church Basketball League will open Saturday, greatest teams will appear January 11. The first practices Thursday night in Washington's of the seven prospective teams to Uline Arena in a benefit game participate will be held this Capital City.

Proceeds of the contest will go to Carroll Hall, Washington newspaper and public relations man who lost his left eye when hit by a flying puck E. Grindle. The teams were between periods of a recent game Bloomington Methodist, First Amateur Athletic Union's 1957 season's first Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist of Piedmont, St. Peter's of Tobago.

Another meeting will be held at the Trinity Church Friday, 7:30 p.m., to approve the 42-game schedule for one, turned him down. Each Word had gotten around that his team will play six games.

There will not be any limit as to how young a player can be but in last Sunday's spectacular exhibition which found him direct- ing the Lions to an unbelievable lopsided victory over the Cleveland Browns.

College basketball coaches are reportedly swinging to a time limit for shooting, probably 30 seconds.

'Stilt' Shines As Strategy Of Foe Fails

KANSAS CITY — Kansas State gambled that it could beat the powerful Kansas basketball team by allowing Will Chamberlain free rein and concentrating its defense on the rest of the Jayhawks.

Chamberlain, the 7-foot All-American, broke two Big Eight tournament records and staged one of the most brilliant performances of his illustrious career last night with 38 points and 18 rebounds.

Turns Into Rout
What was supposed to have been a point-and-point duel between two of the finest teams in the nation turned into a rout by Kansas. The Jayhawks trounced their arch foe 79-65 and won the Big Eight tournament. It was the first time in the 12-year-history of the event that a team has won twice in a row.

"We figured Wilt was going to get between 30 and 40 points, so we decided to let him alone and concentrate on the rest of them," said K-State coach Tex Winter.

"What we didn't figure on was (Ron) Loneski. He's the guy that ruined us."

Loneski, who has played second fiddle to his remarkable teammate for two seasons, scored 16 points and captured 16 rebounds.

Booster Leaves Game
Kansas entered the final favored by only 2 1/2 points. Each team was undefeated in nine games and Kansas State followers regard it as the best balanced team in the country.

State's balance was upset by influenza. Bob Boozer, the team's No. 1 scorer, played only the first half before intestinal cramps forced him out. He still scored nine points and got nine rebounds. Hayden Abbott, a regular starter, never got into the contest because of flu.

Wilt who blocked 9 wildcat shots from the floor and his teammates held Jack Parr, the No. 2 K-State shooter, to 11 points. Veteran Roy DeWitz got 16, and sophomore Wally Frank, filling in for Abbott, led the team with 18.

Chamberlain scored 106 points in three tournament games, breaking the tourney record of 93 which he set last year. He also sank 40 field goals, breaking the record of 37 established in 1950 by another noted Kansan, Clyde Lovellette.

Kansas coach Dick Harp commented: "Wilt played a good game, but it was the best team effort we've gotten this season."

Morrow Wins Sullivan Award
NEW YORK — (INS) — Bobby Joe Morrow, the Texas comet who was a triple gold medal winner at the 1956 Olympics, was named today as winner of the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy.

Morrow, 22-year-old divinity student now in his senior year at Abilene Christian College, was selected as "the athlete who, by performance example and good influence did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

Morrow was the 1956 Olympic 100 and 200 meter champion and member of the victorious United States 400 meter relay team.

Hal Smith led Kansas City batters in 1957 with a .303 mark in 107 games.

He hoped that better cooperation will be had from the churches in this respect.

Terps' Triple-Overtime Loss One of Top Thrillers

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Talk about basketball thrillers! There'll hardly be one for a long time to top Memphis State's 47-46 victory over previously-unbeaten Maryland in three overtimes for the Sugar Bowl title.

Bob Vanatta's hustling crew fought back from a slim deficit at halftime and rallied behind Bob Wolfe's sparkling floor play and Bob Swander's shooting to hand Maryland its first loss in seven games.

The game was the first in 21 stagings of the Sugar Bowl to go into three overtimes, and the three sessions last night had the crowd of 5,000 screaming to the finish.

Loyola of New Orleans edged Vanderbilt 84-80 for the consolation title, despite a 21-point performance by the Commodores' Jim Henry who was named the tournament's outstanding player.

Both Maryland and Memphis State showed potent defenses in the first half with each looking for openings. The half ended with Maryland in front 27-24.

The defensive battle continued in the second half, but Memphis State outscored the Terrapins 15-12 and the game moved into the first overtime session.

Orby Arnold hit for a Memphis field goal, but Julius Weingarten matched the basket and the session ended 41-41. Wolfe, playing with three stitches over his left eye from a fall in Saturday night's opening round, collected two free throws at the start of the period, but Weingarten kept Maryland in the game with another basket.

Swander hit for all four Memphis State points in the third overtime. Maryland center Al Bunge connected for a field goal and a free throw and the Terrapins had the ball when time ran out.

Arnold, Wolfe and Bunge, along with Loyola's Chet Doll, were named to the all-tournament team.

Rose Bowl's Oldest Fan Picks Bucks

By JOHN BERGMAN
PASADENA, Calif.—(INS)—A studious stockbroker, who has witnessed every Rose Bowl game since the classic began in 1916, predicted today that Ohio State would whip Oregon, 45 to 17, in the 42nd renewal of the Pasadena classic tomorrow.

Edwin P. Gaffney, a full-time football fan who pursues collegiate schedules with the same diligence he applies to the stock market, bases his prognostication on what he terms an "80 per cent correct average."

Gaffney's career as a Rose Bowl regular began when he was a 14-year-old Pasadena schoolboy. He sneaked through a wooden fence to take his place among 10,000 fans who watched Washington State defeat Brown, 14 to 0, in a contest that touched-off the half-century of East-West football rivalry.

At the time, the game was staged in Tournament Park, a city recreation area situated near the campus of the Pasadena Institute of Technology.

Moved In 1923
The New Year's Day game continued at its Tournament Park site until 1922 and never attracted crowds in excess of 20,000.

Then on January 1, 1923, the classic was moved into the present Rose Bowl, a concrete and steel stadium located in the Arroyo Seco ravine on the western end of Pasadena near the Los Angeles city line.

The stadium, built at first in a horseshoe shape, seated 33,000 persons. It was soon enlarged, however, as the attendance demand increased, to its present capacity of 100,963.

Gaffney, who spends his work days in a Beverly Hills brokerage office, won the title of "Dean of Rose Bowl Watchers" on January 1, 1942.

The world was at war and collegiate sports, although curtailed, were not stopped. Oregon State, the Pacific Coast Conference champion, had a date to meet Duke, winners of the Southeast Conference.

Because of emergency conditions on the West Coast, the game was transferred to Durham, N. C., complete with everything except its number one fan, Gaffney.

Only Rose Bowl Fan
He spent the day huddled over a portable radio on the 50-yard line, the only person on hand in the actual Rose Bowl to cheer Oregon State to a 20 to 15 victory.

As a walking encyclopedia of football statistics, especially those pertaining to the Rose Bowl, Gaffney can reel off what are to him the big bowl's most memorable moments.

For his most exciting game, he lists the 1925 classic that saw Notre Dame's Four Horsemen and seven mules turn back a fighting Stanford team, sparking (Continued on Page 15)

Idle West Virginia Retains No. 1 Spot

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press
Idle West Virginia, unbeaten in its first eight games, clung to first place in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll.

Kansas and Kansas State, who met last night in the finals of the Big Eight Holiday Tournament, closed in on West Virginia, which won't resume play until Thursday against Canisius.

Kansas ran its winning streak to nine by knocking off Oklahoma and Iowa State in the tournament. Kansas State's streak also grew to nine with tournament victories over Missouri and Nebraska.

North Carolina held fourth place by winning the Dixie Classic beating St. Louis, Wake Forest and North Carolina State.

Cincinnati squeezed past Drake in its only game of the week to remain unbeaten going into last night's game with Bradley. They remained in fifth place.

San Francisco won the All-College Tournament at Oklahoma City, defeating Denver, Niagara and Oklahoma City. The Dons moved up a peg to sixth. Maryland, which played Memphis State last night in the Sugar Bowl finals, was seventh.

Michigan State, winner of three games on the road against Iowa State, UCLA and Southern California, was eighth, followed by Mississippi State, which swept the Mississippi State tournament title.

Kentucky was tenth, beating Utah State in its only start last week. West Virginia received 48 firsts from the 116 votes who named 53 different colleges on their ballots.

On the basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second and so on down the line, West Virginia had 981, Kansas 929, Kansas State 774 and North Carolina 760.

The only changes in the top ten saw San Francisco replace Maryland in sixth place with Maryland dropping to seventh and Mississippi State advancing to ninth.

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (U)—There has been so much foul weather in these parts in recent weeks that you're sometimes inclined to take it out on somebody.

It would be ungallant to take it out on the fragile target of television's weather girls. Yet I submit that they aren't helping my feelings about the weather at all. There are, by the way, young ladies presenting weather broadcasts on TV and radio stations in all parts of the country.

My complaint is simply this: The girls are too darned cheerful about the weather.

Cheerfulness may be a virtue in some matters, but it becomes an outright vice to me when dispensed with news of rotten weather overhead and under foot. When it comes to weather, I crave realism—not romanticism.

After walking a mile from the station through sleet and slush that defy the local St. Bernards, I hate to turn the set on to an unbedraggled dame who smilingly informs me that things aren't quite as bad as they seem. The heck you say, ma'am. They're at their worst.

When I come dripping and stumbling into the house at evening, my wife never makes any cheerful remarks about the weather. She has learned not to. She has learned that the best defense for the fact that she is warm and dry while I'm all wet is to launch a heavy attack on the weather.

Then how does it happen that a television weather girl can get away with a cheerfulness that an wife is denied? Well, the answer is that she doesn't get away with it—not with me. When she smiles on the screen, I snarl right back at her.

For some time I've been trying to learn who started this idea of cheerful weather and forecasters.

Apparently the idea just grew. Apparently, too, it's based on a popular theory of our times: Make the unpalatable seem as palatable as possible.

Christmas Tree Collections Set

Collection of Christmas trees will begin Monday with collections on the night following the regular garbage pickup for each section of town.

C. L. Beck, city garbage contractor, said this will not interfere with the regular garbage collection. Residents are urged not to put out trees with garbage cans because collectors may not see the containers.

The first section that will be worked Monday will be West Side and the streets east of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks.

On the following night, Tuesday, trees will be collected in North End and on Wednesday night trees will be hauled away from residents in South Cumberland.

Opening lead—♦ Q

The last hand of the year should present several points of interest and this one does.

To start with there is the bidding. North has a minimum raise for his partner's two bid but the slam contract is certainly a good one.

The next problem is how to play the hand. You win the opening lead in dummy and realize that you have to choose between the trump finesse and the spade finesse right then. Which gives the better chance of success?

This particular South chose the trump finesse. He thought that if it lost he could get back to dummy with the queen of trumps and still finesse the spade.

The finesse lost all right but South never got back to dummy. West did a little thinking and decided that he wanted to keep dummy out of the lead. Hence, when South finessed the jack of trumps West held off with the king. Now South played the ace of hearts and never got back to dummy when the trumps broke three-one. Eventually he had to lose a trick to East's king of spades.

Now to answer the question given above. The spade finesse

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, January 1, 1958

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)—Help others but remember your obligations to yourself. No. Day asks patience, tolerance, and justice.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)—If you assist others and handle your own affairs properly, you should do well now. There may be some confusion in the early hours, but not if you keep yourself well in hand.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)—Leave nothing undone that should be attended to before you take off for pleasure. Don't shrink obligations, even though it's a holiday, or matters will get out of hand later.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)—In all things, speak restrainedly, thoughtfully. You can do so much good when you are your better self.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo)—This day can have a happy ending if you put into it Leo's buoyant cheerfulness and sense of humor. It's all up to you.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)—Note Taurus now. Your outlook is similar. Think twice before making that observation. If you express it better, do so. Day holds both pitfalls and benefits; it's up to you.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)—Be mindful of others' feelings now. This day can be successful if you know where real values lie.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 (Scorpio)—Where there is a will there is a way. If you look long and confidently enough, don't waste time regretting the past. Carry on with faith.

NOVEMBER 24 to DECEMBER 31 (Sagittarius)—A good day for reviewing matters and making improvements where necessary. Friendships, children's activities favored.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 20 (Capricorn)—There's no reason why you should not enjoy this day if you have the right intentions and the will to back them. Be practical, however; maintain your sense of humor, tolerance, and justice.

JANUARY 21 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)—This is a good time to catch your breath, enjoy little things you "have no time for" on busier days.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)—Wholehearted interest and commensurate will achieve most for you today. Be tactful in personal and romantic affairs, at home and outside.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately self-reliant, natural leaders in large enterprises. You dislike detail work but can do it. Interested in doing the unusual, you can manage and direct when rightly educated. You show interest in others' activities. Get all the education you can. You put all your energy into whatever you do, thus you can forge ahead while others ponder.

You are not very demonstrative in affections but are loyal, devoted, and like companionship. You are artistic, musical, entertaining. Watch out for discontent, selfishness, jealousy. Birth date of Paul Revere, American patriot, engraver.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Wife, revolted by the infidelity of other men, fears she will eventually be unfaithful, too.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have started to be suspicious of my husband and actually hate him for something he hasn't done yet! All our friends' husbands are having, or have had, a "fling."

One particular husband is having a torrid affair and I dare not tell his wife. But I can see through these men (who don't even know one another) that marriage is a farce!

As for my husband, he appears to have a glint in his eye that looks like envy when talking to the man who is having the affair. And he indicates in a jesting way that he considers it an achievement.

Jealousy is a terrible thing; so I have decided already that I shall be prepared, so that my pride won't be caught off balance. How can these wonderful housewives and mothers let themselves be treated so shabbily? I couldn't and won't put up with that sort of thing philosophically.

Bitter Charge Against All Men

No doubt you'll call me Calamity Jane for anticipating trouble where there is none. But you can't deny reality—and I've seen this happen in my own family. Men are animals, who have no real love for their wives; and therefore I feel it is inevitable that my husband will cheat on me eventually, too.

Men are forever searching for something new and exciting. Why can't they mellow with their families, and become used to their homes and routine? Maybe I'm crazy, but I say there is no such thing as true love. What do you think?—L. T.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Evening Times.

(King Features Syndicate)

There Are Some Mature Husbands

DEAR L. T.: It is well said that a man is known by the company he keeps. And a proverb tells us that birds of a feather flock together. I gather that you are judging all men in terms of the men you know—or those who attract your interest. In which case, most likely you are voicing a narrow fixated view, that doesn't take into account the various kinds of men there are—in their different stages of growth (if any).

It takes all kinds of people to make the world—good, bad and indifferent folk, on the score of such natural qualities as health, intelligence and social drive. (People aren't born equal on this score). Then, on top of such natural inequities we further find that people in these several categories—good, bad and indifferent—don't all make profitable use of the materials God has given them.

Some are wastrels. A person of splendid endowment may let himself stagnate and go to seed; or worse, go to rot. In which case he is apt to end in the ditch along with the sorriest failures of the poorer strains of humanity. (Case of "birds of a feather getting together" from very distant starting points).

You consider it inevitable that

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Science May Evolve Perfect Girl In 1958

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

In 1958 we may be one year closer to looking like our next-door neighbor. (Is that good?) If we could stick around until the year 2500, we'd find out if the quote attributed to Tokyo educator Dr. Vibul Thamavit comes true—"Everyone in the world will look alike" 600 or so years from now.

Women would not complain today, perhaps, if every man in the world resembled Charles Boyer, Clark Gable, John Wayne or Cary Grant, monotonous as it could become. But what if the trend to an appearance of a disliked friend or relative should rear its ugly head? Horrors! Mirror breaking would be ear shattering.

What about the female of the species? There are some indications that women are beginning to look alike. They dye their hair in conforming shades, some use the same makeup. But no woman wants to be found dead looking like any other woman.

You can't get women to agree on anything, anyway, much less in the matter of beauty and fashion. Sometimes they follow fashion blindly, sometimes they disagree violently, as witness the 1957 slipcover for the female carcass—the gunysack. Some do, some don't like it.

Millions Of Marilyns
Men may hope that the female looks trend takes a Marilyn Monroe turn, although it could become too much of a good thing, like Mom's apple pie. Then too, by that time, we may have Martian ladies making inroads on sex appeal standards of Earth men. Who knows—we may find our men really like four-lipped girls. Or maybe Martian ladies will be the silent, button-tipped type American men have admired through the years—greater competition no Earthen lady could have.

The suspicion is that men will control this look and image deal. Male scientists running rampant with slide rule and advanced calculus in their nogginns may classify us by type. Dark haired, long nosed, small mouth types, may be XYZ's who may marry only dark-haired, short nosed, large mouth types, classified XNS. These types may marry, and their offspring become YNS, perhaps the ideal type. Or if scientists prefer blondes when we get on this look-alike kick, two brunettes may not be able to meet under an apple tree without a license. That's the way we could all wind up looking alike in no time at all.

If they're going to get this thing working right, they'll have to discourage us about our looks—a motivation research plan of sorts with every youngster so bored being the wrong type that by age 16 he is ready to be talked into the standard look. After 25, when one has admired his mirror portrait for so long, changing face may require a difficult selling job.

TV will rise to the challenge, no doubt, with daily encouraging reminders that we must not waste time. "Are your eyes still too far apart? Gain the lovely one-inch span between the eyes that is one indication of the coming Ideal Era of feminine beauty by using our head squeezer twice a day, available in a handy little tube that may be carried in the purse to picnics, bridge parties, luncheons and PTA meetings. The first million people who send us their order will receive free, at no extra charge, our super lip widener, nose shortener and head shrinker, guaranteed not to fade, rot or become mildewed."
